Waite Family is finally getting out the annual Christmas letter.

RECENT ACTIVITY

David is getting ready to march in the Rose Parade. Alex works part time at Bristol Farms in the meat dept. Margie has been training Nicks to sit on the couch. Barry is celebrating his first year as a retired politician.

Waite Family David won a cash award in his first art contest for an acrylic painting of a Washington beach. 8 months ago

David It stunk. Water looks choppy and blending is uneven.

Margie It's beautiful! You are a cruel critic!

Waite Family We won our legal battle with the horrible homeowner association in the mountains. What was the topic of this three year battle? Our tree house! 3 months ago

Supreme Court Justice Scalia It was an easy decision. We found them to be morons, legally speaking.

Chief Justice Roberts Take a chill-pill, Scalia!

Waite Family Alex was accepted everywhere he applied - except USC, which said they would take him as a transfer student from community college. He wasn't thrilled, but now he thinks that's a pretty good deal.

Barry I'm good with the price!

Waite Family Since we were all going different directions all the time, we finally bought another car. Our driveway looks like a used car lot. 4 months ago David likes this Howard Blumberg/State Farm Insurance Thanks for the added premiums. Much appreciated.

Waite Family In this digital age, we still enjoy the tradition of sending Christmas cards to our friends and family. Season's greetings to one and all. This year's letter is in memory of Monster the dog who passed away this week at the ripe old age of 15 1/2. She is famed for penning our 2001 Christmas letter, for which she received a Pulitzer Prize nomination.

Maybe if the Waite's weren't so busy, they'd see their friends more.

Sponsored

An Extraordinary Food Store. Shop here so Margie and Alex will get paid. Try the apple smoked bacon. Mmm...

Come visit the cabin for a relaxing time in the mountains. Call for reservations!
